Worth-knowing facts about the city

Hamburg is home to around 1.8 million inhabitants, making it Germany's second largest city after Berlin. It is one of the country's most popular tourist destinations and has much to offer.

Hamburg is a significant logistics centre which boasts an international airport and one of the biggest ports in Europe. The city is a major player pre-eminent in aviation and aerospace engineering, bio sciences, information technology, consumer goods, media, culture and the creative economy.

Hamburg is a multi-faceted destination which attracts a wide range of tourists. Its most popular sights include the city centre and Binnenalster Lake, the port and landing piers and the HafenCity district. HafenCity is Hamburg's most modern quarter, and now houses the city's cruise terminal. The western edge of the HafenCity district is dominated by the imposing Elbphilharmonie Concert Hall, a glass construction which offers outstanding acoustic qualities. It also features a viewing platform named the "Plaza", from which a breathtaking 360° perspective of the port and city can be enjoyed. The modern surroundings of the HafenCity are linked with the old quarter of Hamburg via the "Warehouse District", which forms the largest contiguous complex of its kind in the world and has been awarded UNESCO World Heritage Site status. Hamburg's skyline is characterised by the city's five main churches. Pre-eminent amongst these is the iconic St. Michael's Church, colloquially called the "Michel". Younger visitors are particularly attracted by the "Reeperbahn", Hamburg's premier entertainment and night-life area, and by the rows of trendy cafés and bars in the "Schanzenviertel". Hamburg has also become a worldwide magnet for musical theatre fans. Shows on offer include "The Lion King".

Hamburg's combination of cosmopolitan life and port elements exude a particular charm. This is a city which is always worth a visit.
